It's A Curator's Life For Me Essay

Based on everything you have learned doing the project for Ancient Egypt. Answer the question below with complete sentences. Check your work for correct spelling and punctuation and make sure your answer makes sense. Use only the space provided and make sure your answer does not go beyond the space provided.

Curators have an important and difficult job. They have to select, set up and maintain the artifacts in a museum, among other things. You created your own museum and chose specific artifacts to be put on display. In a well written paragraph describe what type of information artifacts (primary sources) provide to people. What value do they have? Use examples from the museum you created in your response.
