Subject Area: Education and Educational Psychology Department

Grade Level(s): Undergraduate Course ED 440 Integrating Language in the Secondary School
Graduate Course ED 515/ED 530 Curriculum of the Elementary/Secondary School

Time Frame to Allow for Lesson/Unit: Full semester for 17 PPTs or Modular Focus on Selected PPTs

Introduction: This unit is comprised of 17 PPTs. The initial PPTs provide contextual information about Essential Understandings, “Skills for the 21st Century,” and Generational Changes of the K-12 school clientele. Each of the remaining fourteen of the PPTs focus on a different literacy suggested by multiple educational leaders as being necessary for students K-12 to learn in preparation for their college, career, and civic life in the 21st Century [C3]. The PPTs include the following literacies: basic, information, visual, critical, media, tool, digital, data, global, economic, civic, health, historical, and scientific. Links in each of the PPTs lead to contextual resources and lesson plans specific to the literacy of the PPT when it is downloaded and/or opened to full screen view.

Connections to the 2013 Summer Institute Themes: The 17 PPTs entitled “Literacies for the Digital Age to Teach in the K-12 Classroom” are directly related to the topics presented each of the five days of the PIER 2013 Summer Institute syllabus Global Youth in a Digital Age.

Vocabulary: generations x, y, z; alpha generation; Digital Natives; 21st Century Skills; basic, information, visual, critical, media, tool, digital, data, global, economic, civic, health, historical, and scientific literacies;

5. Consider the impact of technology on adolescent literacies
6. Compare all of these language forms with the Discourses of classroom texts.

TO DO: consider secondary instruction as it has changed over the periods of educational history
1. Where/what were secondary schools during this decade? Why?
2. Who went to secondary schools? Why? Who were the teachers? Why?
3. What content was taught? Why? What were content boundaries? Why? What were students' literacy needs? Why?
4. What political, social, economic and other forces impinged on education during this decade? Why?

TO DO: IS THIS A VALID SUMMARY OF CHPT. 1? WHY? WHY NOT? SUPPORT YOUR VIEW.
"Adolescent literacy is comprised of multiple social, technological, and academic Discourses, and is made all the more complex by the individual identities students construct to define themselves. In order to reach preadolescent and adolescent learners you will need to understand, acknowledge, and engage the multi-literacies of adolescents’ lives."

Shaping the Way We Teach English: Module 01, Contextualizing Language
Contextualization is the meaningful use of language for real communicative purposes. It helps students understand how language users construct language in a given context. Teachers can contextualize language instruction by organizing the content of the language curriculum according to themes or topics. These themes or topics work best when they are threaded throughout the course of study. An innovative offering from the Office of English Language Programs, Shaping the Way We Teach English, is a 14-module teacher training video series developed and produced in cooperation with the University of Oregon.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=c-LkN-Pm_zA&feature=relmfu

The focus in Module 1 was on the importance of contextualizing language. In Module 2, the focus is on the need to be aware of the specific language within that context. That is, the awareness, the attention, and the noticing of the particular features of language that add to learning. This means that it is important to pay attention to language form, for example, grammar, vocabulary, and pronunciation. However, teaching these formal aspects of language through rules, exercises, memorization, and drills does not appear to be entirely effective. Research shows that selectively focusing on aspects of language use within a given context can be even more effective. Language awareness is the name for this kind of focus. And, because language awareness is a focus on the pragmatic uses of language, the language input must be in context. Two additional requirements of language awareness are that: * The context should reflect language that learners are most likely to use. * And, language practice in context should be accompanied by conscious effort and reflection on that practice.

http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=1KU-LaJh2qo&feature=relmfu

The focus in this module is on Integrating Skills. We usually talk about four primary language skills: receptive skills, listening and reading; and, productive skills, speaking and writing. There are also sub-skills, which are a necessary foundation for the four primary skills: grammar, vocabulary, pronunciation, and non-verbal skills. In this module, we will look at some real classroom examples of integrating skills, using one or more graphic organizers for analysis.

An innovative offering from the Office of English Language Programs, Shaping the Way We Teach English, is a 14-module teacher training video series developed and produced in cooperation with the University of Oregon.
The focus in this module is on Pair and Group Work. Pair and Group Work incorporates principles and themes from the Cooperative Learning and Collaborative Learning theoretical frameworks. We will look at some real classroom examples, using Stella Ting-Toomey’s “describe, interpret, evaluate” process to analyze what is happening with pair and group work in these classes. An innovative offering from the Office of English Language Programs, Shaping the Way We Teach English, is a 14-module teacher training video series developed and produced in cooperation with the University of Oregon.

One important distinction to make when giving learner feedback is that of formative vs. summative evaluation. Formative evaluation is a way of giving students feedback along the way. It is the answer to the questions, “How am I doing so far?” and “How can I improve?” Summative evaluation includes those kinds of evaluation that summarize a student’s overall performance. For example, the final grade for a course.

In this module, we'll look at some: General "Dos and Don'ts" for formative learner feedback. And, some specific techniques for giving feedback on work that students have produced when the primary focus is on oral skills, and on writing skills.

In recent years, the demand for English has increased. Schools around the world have responded by adding more English classes into the curriculum. Class sizes can be quite large and, in some cases, are growing even larger. Classes of 50-75 students are not uncommon. Many people in education are asking themselves: How do large classes affect an instructor’s ability to teach, and a student’s ability to learn? And, how do large classes affect the quality of education?

Teachers may not be able to answer these as research questions, but they can examine pedagogical techniques and classroom management practices that make the best of large classroom situations. An innovative offering from the Office of English Language Programs, Shaping the Way We Teach English, is a 14-module teacher training video series developed and produced in cooperation with the University of Oregon.

The goal of teaching strategies is to create autonomous learners, learners who can learn by themselves inside and outside the classroom. Research and classroom practices are evolving in many directions to try to better understand and facilitate learning for students of all ages. In general, successful language learners tend to select strategies that work well together, according to the requirements of the language task. These learners can easily explain the strategies they use and why they use them.

Authentic materials are used by native speakers of a language for actual communication. Authentic materials are good tools for language teaching and learning because they are: * Interesting. * They use real language. * They can be chosen for individual interests. * They illustrate accurate use of language in the target culture. * And, they help students learn how to get as much information as they can, even if they can't understand everything, or even very much.

In this module, we'll take a look at what one teacher is doing to bring critical and creative thinking into her classes. Her students are learning to take a "think locally and act globally" approach to problem-solving and new areas of inquiry in their learning as they develop their language skills.

This is the first week in a large class of young adults. The teacher is using a content-based approach with a Mass Media theme as a basis for the day's activities. She is assessing students' skills as they participate in and complete a series of tasks. Observe the sequence of activities that she has students do over the course of the class. Ask yourself, "In what ways are critical and creative thinking involved?"

Say once again, and then once again,
"Komets-alef: o!"

Children, learn with happiness, learn the aleph-bet.
Lucky is the jew who knows the Torah.
and the aleph-bet.

Note: At the end of the video are TWO POLISH JEWS paintings. "'Samuel Goldenburg and Schmuyle' were two Polish Jews and were originally the subjects of two separate paintings by Victor Hartman. Mussogorsky combined the essence of the two paintings into one movement, perhaps to emphasize a rich man/poor man contrast. Samuel Goldenburg, probably large, well dressed and rich, is represented by the first tune in the movement. Schmuyle on the other hand is represented by a piercing, troubled-sounding melody, making him 'appear' to be thin and poor." MUSSOGORSKY : PICTURES AT AN EXHIBITION.

Mark Warshavsky
Mark Markovich Warshavsky -- folk poet, was born in Zhitomir ca. 1845*, died in Kiev in 1907. He graduated from the Kiev University and practiced law in Kiev. In spare time Warshavsky liked to compose and sing Yiddish songs. He wrote lyrics and music for these songs simultaneously. Assuming that his songs have no artistic value, Warshavsky did not record them. Later, following Sholom Aleychem's advice, Warshavsky published his first 25-song collection "Judische Volkslieder" with Sholom Aleychem's enthusiastic preface. Music to these songs was published shortly thereafter. Warshavsky's book was a great success, many of his songs became very popular and were regarded as folk songs (for example, "Der Alef-Beis", "A Brif fun Amerike", "Der Zeide mit der Babe").

Warshavsky's songs ingeniously and emotionally embody the motifs of Jewish folk poetry, whose spirit the author grasped so precisely. Warshavsky's work is inseparably linked with the life of his people, with all their sufferings and joys. People's tears ("Tsum badekens der Kale"), and sadness ("A Yidishe Lid fun Ruminien"), pogroms ("Peisach"), poverty ("Neben Klaisel"), and immigration ("A Brif fun Amerike", "Di shif") find a response in Warshavsky's songs. But these sad motifs are alleviated by the presence of special spiritual courage. Jewish hero of Warshavsky's songs is an optimist. Suffering could not restrain their deep believe in better future, suppress theirs joyous sense of life: "Suffer and sing". Warshavsky's songs are warmed by touching love to the "Yidishe Gas" (Jewish Street) with its simple way of life. Stuffy cheder, where Jewish children study AlefBeis, Jewish wedding rituals ("Tsum badekens"), family anniversaries ("Der Zeide mit der Babe") - all this cherished and familiar to the author. The language of the songs is simple and open-hearted. It is an authentic dialect spoken in Volyn. The metre of the verses is not always sustained, form is quite diverse, poem's structure and rhyme is folk and gentle. Melodies are graceful, intimate and in full harmony with the text. Sincere melody of the "A Brif fun Amerike" makes especially strong expression. Many Warshavsky's poems remain unpublished.

* in 1840, 1845, or 1848 according to different sources.
There were many songs composed in Poland in pre-war time meant for audience speaking Polish language, regardless their roots or ancestry. Some of them were picturing people, their habits and customs, according to Jewish tradition; no wonder, there were more than 3 million Jews in the country on Vistula river.

Tango 'Rebeka' is not the only example of the kind, although seems to be the most popular: story of a poor girl, shop attendant in a small town, where one day a handsome and rich gentleman from 'the great world', passing by, asks her for 'Ergo' product. She will not forget this visit and the image of 'the prince' -- as a love at first sight -- will haunt her all her life.

Before the war, a full text version was recorded only by Zofia Terné (1932). After the war the tango-song became a Polish standard recollecting times "when Jews were among us". Sung by such interpreters as Wanda Warska, Elżbieta Kępińska, Ewa Demarczyk, Sława Przybylska and many, many others.

ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY & STUDY GUIDE: Creation of an annotated bibliography of various works of literature [fiction & non-fiction] pertinent to each student's discipline based major, and which may be utilized in the student's field classroom. Benefits of this activity: networking within and/or across disciplines, creation of resource list, creation of assessment rubrics.

Students may form academic interest groups according to discipline groupings [e.g. English, Health, History / Social Science, Mathematics, Spanish, Biology, Earth Science] in order to network their energies.

Students organize to divide responsibilities of
- seeking out appropriate works,
- reading them,
- writing annotations about the selections,
- contributing a minimum of 5 annotated sources to the group effort,
- word processing the group product on a CD [using MLA format], and
- printing out a hard copy to give to the professor.

Each annotation prepared for the project should include the following information:

| 2.1 author, title of work, publishing site, publisher, year, number of pages; |
| 2.2 category of literature that the work represents; [e.g. genre] |
| 2.3 anticipated grade level and course for usage of the work; |
| 2.4 reading level of the work [consult Ruddell’s tests]; |
| 2.5 brief overview of the work’s content; |
| 2.6 reason for selection of the work [what message will the work bring?]; |
| 2.7 suggestions for how the work could be used in a secondary classroom to improve literacy for diverse student populations [i.e. consult your discipline specific McRel spiral textbook and ED 405 text for various methods of teaching literacy in your discipline to students’ of diverse abilities/ special needs in order to differentiate instruction for a variety of students; and, specify with which populations the particular method could be used]; |
| 2.8 suggestions for how the work could be adapted for ELL students [i.e. consult your discipline specific McRel spiral textbook, Echevarria text, and Ruddell’s examples for various methods of teaching literacy in your discipline to ELL students]. |

Each student will create a formal STUDY GUIDE for each of 2 sources that he/she contributes to the group project. If a student creates his/her annotated bibliography as an individual, it is necessary to select 2 sources for which to create 2 study guides.
Create a literacy across the content areas curriculum module to be implemented in your discipline based teaching classroom.

The module should be word processed on a CD for the professor. This copy of the CD and 1 hard copy of the module are to be handed in to your ED 440 professor during the during the PDS field placement. Be sure to make a backup disk of the module for yourself. Comments about the module will be listed on a specific evaluation matrix, which will include all required criteria.

 Portions of the curriculum modules will be presented to the class at various times during the semester, as the schedule allows this activity. Each student will share an abstract of his/her module with members of the class. Benefits of this activity: practice in curriculum design and networking with peers.

Module must include:

- a. cultural diversity perspectives [global, multicultural];
- b. character and civic education perspectives,
- c. presence of the integrated language approach;
- d. activities representative of lower and higher order thinking skills;
- e. examples of how to read/write/study techniques;
- f. assessment techniques using Likert scales/rubrics/portfolios; and,
- g. techniques for teaching students with limited English skills/ELLs.
- h. Problem Based Learning in the lessons.
- i. use of technology in teaching the module, and in students’ activities
- j. the print out of a web quest and a power point presentation.

The module must adhere to

- a. discipline specific aspects of the CSDE Curricular Content Areas

- b. students’ secondary discipline specific national standards

- c. the CSDE Common Core of State Standards

- d. the CSDE Connecticut Common Core of Learning

- e. the CSDE Connecticut Common Core of Teaching

Components of the module should be arranged in the following order:

- 4.1 ILLUSTRATED THEMATIC FRONT COVER
- 4.2 TITLE PAGE
- 4.3 TABLE OF CONTENTS (create after all work is completed)
- 4.4 OVERVIEW OF THE MODULE [ABSTRACT 100 WORDS created after all work is completed

[preliminaries 4.5-4.8]
4.5 YOUR PHILOSOPHY OF TEACHING FOR LITERACY IN YOUR DISCIPLINE SPECIFIC CLASSROOM [formulated throughout the semester from readings and class discussions]
4.6 BECOMING A CULTURALLY SKILLED EDUCATOR STATEMENT [see format for writing your statement]
4.7 RATIONALE FOR CREATION OF THE MODULE [Indicate the reasons why you chose the specific topic for your module]
4.8 GOALS OF THE MODULE [Should be broad and far reaching in effect]

[alignment of standards 4.9]
4.9 LINKS TO CSDE CURRICULUM FRAMEWORKS, & COMMON CORE OF LEARNING & NATIONAL STANDARDS FOR STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT FOR YOUR DISCIPLINE & THE CCSS [Create a matrix and check off which lesson matches which category of each standard.]

[preparation for teaching 4.10-4.13]
4.10 PLANNING REQUIRED FOR IMPLEMENTATION OF THE MODULE [What you need to do in advance of the instruction in order to make the lessons effective. E.g. with whom do you need contact for what?]
4.11 PROFILE OF STUDENTS’ SKILLS REQUIRED TO USE THE MODULE [Which reading, writing, listening, speaking, viewing, computing, thinking, and studying skills will the students need to have prior to the instruction phase of the module? How will you know and/or diagnose that students have those skills? What specifically will you do to put those skills in place if there are deficiencies in skills?]
4.12 PROFILE OF STUDENTS’ PRIOR KNOWLEDGE BASE REQUIRED TO USE THE MODULE [Which pre-assessment or diagnostic tools will you use to ascertain students’ prior knowledge? Why those choices?]
4.13 PLANNING FOR INSTRUCTION, TAKING STUDENTS’ ACADEMIC, SOCIAL, AND DEVELOPMENTAL NEEDS INTO ACCOUNT [How will your instruction demonstrate that students’ needs have been the basis for your selection of content, teaching techniques, and assessment tools?]

[instruction/lesson plans 4.14]
4.14 INSTRUCTIONAL IMPLEMENTATION OF THE MODULE [Use the Student Teaching Evaluation Instrument’s [STEI] lesson plan format to create 8 lessons in your discipline that teach for literacy in your content area, and that you will be using during your student teaching field placement semester.

Be sure to include all categories of the lesson plan.

Include charts, graphs, illustrations, diagrams, selected content handouts, outline of the discipline based knowledge, and printouts of web quests and power point presentations that you use with each of the lesson plans.]
4.15 ASSESSMENT OF STUDENTS’ LEARNING [Which pre-assessment, formative, summative, informal, and formal assessment and evaluation tools will be used for each lesson to measure students’ achievement/products?]

How will you know what the students have learned for each of the domains of the lessons’ objectives? Provide examples of pre-assessments/diagnostics, and post-teaching assessments, as well as an answer key for each.

Be sure to have a rubric for each of the lessons in the module.

Provide a concluding evaluation, and answer key for the module.

4.16 SUGGESTED BIBLIOGRAPHIC SOURCES FOR USE WITH THE MODULE
by the instructor and by the students.
Use your Annotated Bibliography for this section.

4.17 RESOURCE MATERIALS THAT YOU MIGHT USE WITH YOUR LESSONS’ ACTIVITIES which are not directly used in the lessons, but appropriately could be used for extensions of your lessons, or for differentiation of instruction for your students.

This section may include videos, music CDs, various pieces of art, games, internet sites, MP3 items, downloads of podcasts, virtual museum tours, and many other interesting sources to enhance your knowledge, skills, and dispositions during the planning, instruction, and assessment of this curriculum module.

4.18 AN OPTIONAL APPENDIX [for any materials that do not belong with the lessons]

4.19 BACK COVER
FORMAT FOR DETAILED LESSON PLANS WITHIN THE CURRICULUM MODULE

Student Teacher __________________________ Grade Level ______ Date of lesson ______________
Institution ______________________________

Content Standards: Identify one or two primary local, state or national curricular standards this lesson is designed to help students attain. How will the learning tasks lead students to attain the identified standards?

SEE RESOURCES FOR STUDENT TEACHERS FOR STANDARDS

Learner Background: Describe the students’ prior knowledge or skill related to the learning objective(s) and the content of this lesson, using data from pre-assessment as appropriate. How did the students’ previous performance in this content area or skill impact your planning for this lesson?

DESCRIBE THE PRE-ASSESSMENT INSTRUMENT USED TO DETERMINE STUDENTS’ PRIOR KNOWLEDGE, SKILLS; WHAT RESULTS WERE THERE FROM USE OF THE INSTRUMENT? DESCRIBE THE DIRECT CONNECTION BETWEEN WHAT YOU LEARNED ABOUT YOUR STUDENTS and YOUR PLANNING FOR THE LESSON’S CONTENT, METHODS, MATERIALS, and ASSESSMENTS.

Student Learning Objective(s): Identify specific and measurable learning objectives for this lesson.

INCLUDE 3 DOMAINS OF OBJECTIVES: COGNITIVE, AFFECTIVE, SKILL;
EACH OBJECTIVE NEEDS TO HAVE A CONDITION, MEASURABLE BEHAVIOR, LEVEL OF EXPECTED PROFICIENCY FOR THE STUDENTS;

Assessment: How will you ask students to demonstrate mastery of the student learning objective(s)? Attach a copy of any assessment materials you will use, along with assessment criteria.

INCLUDE INFORMAL [observation] and FORMAL [quiz of 10 questions] ASSESSMENT INSTRUMENTS FOR THE LESSON. INCLUDE SPECIFIC WRITTEN CRITERIA FOR THE ASSESSMENT THAT STUDENTS WILL RECEIVE PRIOR TO THE LESSON. INCLUDE A RUBRIC FOR STUDENTS’ USE. ATTACH AN ANSWER SHEET FOR THE ASSESSMENT

Materials/Resources: List the materials you will use in each learning activity including any technological resources.

[E.G. text pages, dictionary, thesaurus, atlas, handout, worksheet, power point print out, map, graphic organizer, primary document, illustration and/or photograph, newsprint page, pen, pencil, crayons, markers, glue, scissors, tape, etc.]

Learning Activities:
Identify the instructional grouping (whole class, small groups, pairs, individuals) you will use in each phase of instruction.

Initiation: Briefly describe how you will initiate the lesson. (Set expectations for learning; articulate to learners what they will be doing and learning in this lesson, how they will demonstrate learning, and why this is important)

THE FIRST 3-5 MINUTES OF THE LESSON. THE INITIATION SHOULD MOTIVATE THE STUDENTS TO LEARN and SHOW TEACHER’S ENTHUSIASM FOR THE LESSON. A SENSE OF INQUIRY SHOULD BE CONVEYED TO THE STUDENTS.

THE FIRST 3-5 MINUTES OF THE LESSON. THE INITIATION SHOULD MOTIVATE THE STUDENTS TO LEARN and SHOW TEACHER’S ENTHUSIASM FOR THE LESSON. A SENSE OF INQUIRY SHOULD BE CONVEYED TO THE STUDENTS.

SEE ADDITIONAL PIECES TO INCLUDE IN THE INITIATION [weave all the parts together in the first 3-5 minutes of the lesson]

A. Motivator [focus students’ attention on conceptual purpose for the lesson]
B. Recall of Past Learning [how this lesson is built on previous lessons]
C. Relation to New Learning [rationale, why this lesson is important]
D. Relation to Future Learning [how this lesson will lead to new learning]
Lesson Development: Describe how you will develop the lesson, what you will do to model or guide practice, and the learning activities students will be engaged in order to gain the key knowledge and skills identified in the student learning objective(s).

LESSON SHOULD BE ORGANIZED CONCEPTUALLY, SEPARATING EACH CONCEPT INTO A DIFFERENT ELEMENT OF THE LESSON.

EACH ELEMENT OF THE DEVELOPMENT SHOULD INCLUDE THE CONCEPT OR ESSENTIAL QUESTION, WHAT THE TEACHER WILL BE DOING, WHAT THE STUDENTS WILL BE DOING, THE LESSON CONTENT, and THE INSTRUCTIONAL ARRANGEMENT FOR THAT ELEMENT.

Closure: Briefly describe how you will close the lesson and help students understand the purpose of the lesson. (Interact with learners to elicit evidence of student understanding of purpose(s) for learning and mastery of objectives)

LAST 5-10 MINUTES OF THE LESSON. [E.G. STUDENTS SHARE THEIR WORK, CROSSWORD PUZZLE INCLUDES LESSON’S VOCABULARY, STUDENTS WRITE A JOURNAL/LOG ENTRY ABOUT THEIR LEARNING, ETC.]

Individuals Needing Differentiated Instruction: Describe 1 to 3 students with learning differences. These students may be special or general education students and need not be the same students for each lesson. Students may represent a range of ability and/or achievement levels, including students with IEPs, gifted and talented students, struggling learners, and English language learners.

SEE THE RUBRIC GLOSSARY RE: ACCOMMODATION & MODIFICATION

Note: Differentiated instruction may not be necessary in every lesson. However, over the course of the student teaching placement, it is expected that each student teacher will demonstrate the ability to differentiate instruction in order to meet the needs of students with learning differences.
